My dear Mr. Forman

Some seven weeks since I wrote to thank you for your kind present of the photographs, and fearing that my letter may not have reached you, I beg to repeat my most cordial thanks for your invaluable gift, which I shall preserve among my most dearly treasured memorials.

I hope that you and your family have benefited by your summer excursion. We have not been so fortunate, as we have passed two or three months of excessive heat, the effects of which I am still suffering.

I have heard that poor Severn is dead. Can you inform me if the report is correct?

How I wish I had been beside h
